

Speaker: D. Prasad

Title: On the role of local root numbers in questions in Harmonic Analysis.

Abstract: Decomposing representations of groups restricted to subgroups, the so-called branching laws, has been an important problem, studied in a variety of contexts. In this lecture we discuss certain problems which arise in the context of automorphic forms, and in which local root numbers play an important role.