

Abstract:

While there is no ambiguity regarding the notion of a cohomology theory with values in an abelian group, or in a complex of abelian groups, this is no longer the case when dealing with a complex of non-abelian groups. I will examine the properties of such non-abelian (or partly abelian) cohomology theories in some simple situations, with some applications.